

Dr Sophie Croizier is group leader at the Center for Integrative Genomics at the University of Lausanne.

In her talk, she will highlight her recent findings on the role of EphrinB molecules in the control of energy and glucose homeostasis through excitatory inputs onto arcuate POMC neurons.